Says Foreign Aid Slash Will Hurt Business

By STERLING F. GREEN
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy told American businessmen today that "disastrous" cuts by the House in foreign aid funds would damage the country's export trade as well as its security.

In a speech prepared for 400 executives at the White House

Conference on Export Expansion, Kennedy made a bid for industry support in the administration's push for restoration of the aid money in the Senate.

"I hope you will join me in seeking to reverse these disastrous cuts," he said.

Although the two-day export conference was called to enlist business cooperation in the government-wide effort to eliminate the balance of payments deficit, Kennedy devoted a third of his address to what he called "our much abused foreign aid program."

The White House foreign aid request was $4.5 billion, but after successive slashes by the House Foreign Affairs Committee and the House itself, the authorization bill now calls for only $3.5 billion.

Explaining his contention that the cuts would impair private commerce, Kennedy said: "No foreign aid program, of course, can or should substitute for private initiative. But it can assist in breaking the path; and that is an important reason for us all to give it support."

"These aid expenditures abroad are not, as is sometimes believed, the cause of our adverse balance of payments. More than 80 per cent of our current aid commitments are for expenditures in the United States; and next year off-shore (foreign) expenditures by aid will be even lower."

"But aid can help our balance of payments by helping exports—and the recent cuts in this program by the House of Representatives, while saving at most only $20 million in American dollars on our balance of payments accounts, will have a severe impact upon our exports as well as our security."

Before the President spoke, Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz urged the businessmen to expand their exports to help close the full-employment gap as well as the balance of payments gap.

Petition for $262,000 St., Drainage District in City Soon to Be Circulated

Appliance School Here Wednesday

A workshop on Selection Use and Care of Small Electric Appliances will be Wednesday, September 18, in the Community Room of the First National Bank. This will be taught by Miss Elizabeth Ellis, Home Equipment Specialist, Arkansas Extension Service, Little Rock. Anyone interested in information of this type is invited to attend.

Says Budget Cut Needed, Not a Talk

WASHINGTON (AP)—House Republican leader Charles A. Halleck said today that budget-cutting action, not a speech, is what President Kennedy needs to get his tax reduction program through Congress this year.

While Halleck promised to "listen with some interest" to Kennedy's nationwide television and radio address on taxes Wednesday, he said his own view is unchanged.

If Kennedy sends Congress "a significant schedule for voluntary reductions in his original spending requests, Congress will pass a tax reduction bill this year—it is that simple," Halleck said.

House Democratic leaders, meanwhile, said they have the votes to pass the $11 billion tax cut bill in that chamber next week.

The administration's worries center in the Senate.

The chances for final action on the measure this year are seriously threatened by a prospective filibuster on civil rights and the opposition of Sen. Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., Byrd, Finance Committee chairman, wants a reduction in spending to go along with any cut in taxes.

Britain Using New Radar Station

FYLINGDALES, England (AP)—Britain's Royal Air Force today switched on the new $120 million Fylingdales radar station which will help warn Britain and the United States of possible hostile missiles.

The RAF will operation the station as part of the early warning chain which includes stations from Greenland to Alaska. The others are run by the United States, which also paid all but $16 million of Fylingdales' cost.

Playwrite Shaw Recalls the Depression Years, Time of Ferment, Pol. Hopefulness

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—"I've been called an angry, middle-aged man," said Irwin Shaw, lighting up a four-bit cigar.

"But I don't feel angry. I just feel candid."

At 50, Shaw has made his first real change of profession since he started banging away at the typewriter when he was 13. He became a producer in self-defense after a long one-man war against Hollywood moguls who tampered with his screenplays. His first production is "In the French Style," which he wrote himself.

"I also produced it myself to be sure that the mice didn't nibble away at the script," he said.

"Film people get very careless of a script if the author isn't around, or if he has no authority. Everybody can be a writer once he has a script already written that he can change."

The chunky, grizzled haired author, who now is in Switzerland, said he felt like a stranger in the big city where he first won fame in the 1930s.

"I don't like cities any more," he said. "They wear me down. The city is a vast centrifuge

Approximately 100 persons attended a meeting last night at Hotel Barlow in which the proposed $640,000 street improvement project was discussed at length. Here's the breakdown on money participation:

$250,000 from the federal government.

$262,000 from the proposed improvement district.

$128,000 from Water and Light Plant surplus funds.

The federal money has to be matched locally. In order to raise $262,000 property owners in the proposed district where the work will be done will be asked to sign a petition to create an improvement district. And 66 and two-thirds per cent of the property owners must sign such a petition before the district can be created. Petitions are already being circulated by city officials. If approved revenue bonds will be issued and these bonds paid back over the years by property owners.

Roughly here is the area involved:

Mostly in Ward 1, south of the Missouri-Pacific tracks and east of Main Street.

Plans call for the opening of Edgewood from 16th to Highway 67; 6th Street from Edgewood to Main; Shover Road from Highway 4 to Laurel St., and improve Laurel Street to Highway 67; and 9th Street from Edgewood to Main. Along with the main arterial streets other street and drainage work is planned, principally involving East 2nd and South Walnut. Plans call for complete storm sewer for the entire area.

The City has 120 days from Sept. 5 to start actual work on the project. Thus property owners will be contacted as soon as possible and asked to sign the petition approving the district.

Garland Voting on Plant Bonds

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP)—Garland County is voting today on a proposed $1.5 million industrial bond issue.

The money would go to build a plant for a new aluminum processing industry and to complete an industrial park on Highway 270 five miles east of Hot Springs.

Name of the company has not been disclosed but backers of the bond issue say it would hire 200 persons initially with an annual payroll of $1 million.

"But I remember those days—the 1930s—with a great fondness. They were years of ferment and political hopefulness."

"Everybody was insecure—so everybody felt secure. There wasn't so much money around, so nobody cared too much about it. They didn't worry about their old age as they do now. And they seemed more generous then."

It was in 1936 that Shaw wrote his first hit play, "Bury My Heart at Wounded Knee."

In a single week during that period, he also turned out two tales for the New Yorker magazine that gained him a reputation as a master of the short story.

He has written several more plays, a number of novels—notably "The Young Lions"—and 15 or 20 film scripts, most of which he doesn't care to remember.

At present he has a travel book and another collection of short stories on the fire.

Shaw is a man of tremendous gusto, and to him the meaning of life boils down to one—adventure.

Birmingham Negroes Blame Gov. Wallace

By HOYT HARWELL

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—Birmingham Negroes incensed over the bombing deaths of four of their children plan to march on Montgomery to lay directly before Gov. George C. Wallace their feeling that he is to blame for the slayings.

At their first gathering since the Sunday morning dynamite blast, an estimated 1,200 Negroes took a unanimous standing vote Monday night to endorse a march on the state house.

The vote came after three integration leaders called for non-violence and accused Wallace of causing the racial tension that led to the dynamiting of the Sixteenth Street Baptist Church. No date for the march was set.

An afternoon funeral service for Carol Robertson, 14, one of the four girls killed by the blast, was scheduled at St. John's African Methodist Episcopal church.

The Rev. Fred Shuttlesworth told the rally that mass services for the other three victims will be held Wednesday afternoon at the Sixth Avenue South Baptist Church—where the rally was held. The three were Denise McNair, 11, and Addie Mae Collins and Cynthia Wesley, both 14.

Negro leaders here and around the nation called for use of more federal power in Birmingham, but a government source in Washington said there was no legal basis to put additional troops in the city.

AIDC Must Finance Arkansas Exhibit

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Arkansas Industrial Development Commission apparently will have to carry the main load in financing an Arkansas exhibit at the New York Worlds Fair in 1964-65.

Gov. Orval E. Faubus confirmed Monday that he had agreed to let the AIDC and the Publicity and Parks Commission spend up to $50,000 a year each on the exhibit. This was announced Friday by AIDC Chairman Winthrop Rockefeller.

But Faubus added that L. C. Dial of Brinkley, Publicity and Parks Commission head, had said his agency probably couldn't spend more than $10,000 on the project.

Rockefeller indicated last week that the AIDC was ready to pay its full share and that additional money would be raised by a fund drive.

Rockefeller now is in New York to discuss the exhibit, which will cost between $300,000 and $400,000.

Faubus said he would use some of his emergency fund money to help out and that if the exhibit is a success in 1964 he may ask the 1965 Legislature to provide money for its maintenance in 1965.

At least 20 of the injured required hospital treatment.

Says Will to Resist Reds Eroding

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
NEW YORK (AP)—Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York says the "will to resist communism has been eroded everywhere" as a result of actions by President Kennedy's Democratic administration.

The governor, who is expected to announce soon his candidacy for the 1964 Republican presidential nomination, said "our attitudes in dealing with the Communist leaders throughout the world without consulting our allied partners" were responsible.

In a speech to more than 1,300 persons at the annual dinner of the Ulster County Republican committee Monday night, Rockefeller said "there is only one alternative to what's going on in Washington today and that is a Republican victory in 1964."

Rockefeller charged that the Kennedy administration had "failed in terms of leadership and action in solving major problems."

Rockefeller did not specify what he meant by U.S. attitudes in dealing with Communist leaders.

The governor did not refer to his political plans.

Hurricane Cindy Slams Into the Coast of Texas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

PORT ARTHUR, Tex. (AP)—Hurricane Cindy slammed into the Texas coast at 8 a.m. (CST) today with winds of 80 miles an hour and then began disintegrating as it moved inland.

Cindy—third hurricane of the year and the only one that has reached the mainland—hurled high winds and tides at the Texas and Louisiana coast all night.

The hurricane sprang up quickly and unexpectedly Monday and diminished as rapidly today.

The ill-defined eye crossed the coast between Galveston and Port Arthur.

Less than an hour later, Civil Defense authorities in the Port Arthur-Beaumont-Orange area told refugees to go home.

The authorities said damage was minor, although considerable loss to the pecan crop appeared certain.

An estimated 13,000 persons—most of them in Cameron Parish, La., fled ahead of the storm, as a half million did ahead of hurricane Carla two years ago this week. Carla killed 34 and did $500,000 damage.

The Cameron evacuation was spurred by memories of hurricane Audrey in 1957 when

Winning Essay on the Constitution

(Editor's Note: The following essay by Cissie Ellis is the winning one written during Constitution Week observance under direction of the DAR and the American Legion Auxiliary.)

What The Constitution Means To Me

The meaning of the Constitution to me or anyone else, I'm sure, can not be set down as one particular telling. Our ancestors' way of life, our way of life, and the life which is to be lived by the generations to come have been and will be established on and around this great document. By just saying that the Constitution of the United States represents a way of life, you are omitting the most important part of this idea. What about the government of Russia, China, and Cuba? Do not the Communists provide a way of life for their population? The great and wonderful difference is that we lead a free life. We are given the chance to fulfill our ambitions, to work as we wish, to worship God in the way that we see fit. Can you really realize what your life would be without these freedoms given to us by the Constitution and which we take so terribly much for granted?

To me and to each citizen of the United States the Constitution has given one great privilege which we often forget. You and I have been given the right to be ourselves. The government can not tell me who or what I am to be. Not even can my parents live my life for me. They do all they can by offering us a chance to get an education. Notice that I use the word GET. The knowledge is there for us, but we can't expect to go and receive it. It has to be wanted and obtained by the individual.

Compare yourself with the students in Russia. By the time they have reached our age the majority of them are in work camps. Only a small number are allowed to go on in their education, and then they learn what the government wants them to know and nothing more. We, in the United States, are given chance after chance handed to us on silver platters. Wonderful opportunities await us all, and we only have to take advantage of them.

The constitution does not only bring to mind freedoms, happiness, and opportunities. With it goes responsibility. A group of men did not just happen to meet and to draw up this document. One hundred seventy-six years ago a few men stared reality in the face. They saw the dangers of their times, and they also looked ahead to the needs of our day and age. It was their duty, they felt, to insure a free and happy life, not only for themselves, but also for all generations to come. With this in mind, and not their own personal gains, they drew up the Constitution of the United States.

One astonishing thing is the foresight these great men had. Through all these years only twenty-two amendments have been added, including the Bill of Rights. Due to the work of these men and others down through the years, a sense of responsibility has fallen on our shoulders. It is definitely our duty as citizens to live our lives for our country. Before making decisions, we must ask ourselves if what we do will be helping or hindering our cause. In past and present times we have failed to study the Constitution. We know that long ago a group of men drew up this document and that our government is based on it, but that is as far as our knowledge extends. Unless we study and understand the Constitution and pattern our lives by it, we are not fulfilling our responsibilities.

What does the Constitution mean to me? — Well, what comes to your mind when you see the American flag blowing in the breeze, when you hear our national anthem being sung, when you see a young boy kneeling in prayer? The Constitution is filled with meaning and feelings of goodness and happiness. It was not drawn up the way a group of men felt we should live, but was patterned after God's plans for our lives. Because of the Constitution of the United States our land is beautiful and our lives are good.

Weather Cool in Arkansas

Arkansas' weather remained cool and mostly cloudy today, but not much rain is expected until the latter part of the week.

The forecast called for isolated showers in the western portion of the state and a chance of isolated showers in the central section.

Today's high temperatures were expected to range between 80 and 88 degrees and tonight's lows between 64 and 72. Sunday's highs ranged between the upper 70s in the northwest and the 80s in the southwest. Sunday night's lows were generally in the 60s, although a cool 58 was reported at Harrison.

The five-day outlook calls for temperatures ranging three to seven degrees above normal highs of low to high 80s and normal lows in the upper 50s to mid 60s.

VIET NAM: Land of the Long War (2)

For eight weary years French regulars, colonials, Foreign Legion troopers fought an indecisive war against the Viet Minh. Modern arms were no match for the tough, elusive Reds.

France brought the full weight of crack troops and superior equipment to bear upon the Communist Viet Minh guerrillas, but by 1949 the hopelessness of the war in this land of rice paddies and tropical jungle became apparent. France belatedly tried to woo popular support by installing Bao Dai, emperor of the province of Annam, as "chief of state." He had been deposed by the Viet Minh in 1945.

The end came for France with the fall of the fortress of Dienbienphu in May 1954. A cease-fire signed in Geneva divided Viet Nam, like Korea, into North and South. The Communists, led by Ho Chi Minh, got about 82,000 square miles of territory, an area larger than Georgia, containing an estimated 13 million people. South Viet Nam comprised 65,000 miles and an estimated 12 million people.

President Ngo Dinh Diem of South Viet Nam reviews ranks of carbine-armed women Viet Cong guerrillas have kept country on a virtual war footing since it was formed in 1955.

In October 1955, Ngo Dinh Diem proclaimed South Viet Nam a republic and became its first president. (He was re-elected for a second five-year term in 1961.) The unlucky Bao Dai was ousted again. Supported by American aid, which began to flow in 1961, the Diem government has not brought democracy to South Viet Nam, nor has it been able to stamp out the Reds.

In Washington, President Kennedy expressed "a deep sense of outrage and grief" over the bombing and called on all Americans to put aside prejudices and to unite in working for justice and peace.

"Words and actions" of Wallace and the segregation system caused the Sunday deaths, Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. said at the rally.

He said Wallace "had allowed himself to defy the law of the land and to deal with Negro citizens in Alabama as if they didn't live in the state."

The governor declined comment on the proposed march on the state capitol and on King's accusation. He had said earlier he deplored the bombing and hoped the perpetrators would be caught.

They have not been caught. Neither have the persons who staged 21 other bombings in the past eight years.

FBI bomb experts continued to sift through evidence at the church for clues.

Another investigation is under way by a federal grand jury, ordered by U.S. Dist. Judge Clarence William Allgood to look into possible interference with federal court school integration orders.

The city's first week of public school integration preceded the church bombing and resulted in boycotts and demonstrations by some of the white students of the three schools entered by five Negroes. Some adults also were involved in the first demonstrations.

Lions Share of Aid Goes to Orient

By BEN F. MEYER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Military assistance to nations whose borders are overshadowed by the guns of their Communist neighbors is still the costliest single item of U.S. foreign aid, President Kennedy told Congress today.

The lion's share of the military aid is being spent to stem the Chinese Communist threat in the Far East, Kennedy said in his annual report on how U.S. aid is being used.

The report, covering military and economic aid programs in fiscal 1962, did not include more recent outlays, but administration officials said the trend this year is still much the same.

Increasing amounts of economic help are being shifted to Latin America, where the report said "the prospect for the near future is a continuing effort by the international Communist movement to obstruct and retard the Alliance for Progress."

The report said the total $4,511,600,000 aid appropriations for 1962 included: military aid $1.6 billion; development loans $1,112,500,000; special help to Latin America $600 million; supporting aid such as credits to bail nations out of financial trouble $425 million; grants $296.5 million, and a special contingency fund $275 million.

The report said Greece, Turkey, Iran, Pakistan, Thailand, South Viet Nam, Nationalist China and South Korea got more than half of the total military aid.

Virginia Co. Schools Are Re-Opened

By JERRY BUCK

FARMVILLE, Va. (AP) — Negro children returned to school in Prince Edward County today, ending a four-year educational drought.

Hundreds of children—ages 6 to 18—arrived at the Mary Branch Elementary School No. 2 to be sent on to the other three schools open today. There was no immediate estimate of enrollment, but between 1,200 and 1,600 pupils are expected to be in class by the end of the week.

The children are attending a system of free private schools set up only a month ago at the urging of President Kennedy.

The four free schools will not have any formal grades at first and children will be assigned by age groups. They will be allowed to seek their own levels as classes progress.

Some pupils as old as 10 years have never attended school. Most of those who have been to school before have been without any formal education since 1959.

At least two white children and possibly a third white child joined the Negroes in the free schools today. White children in Prince Ed-

Corn Available to State Counties

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Loading orders for 15 rail carloads of corn for four Arkansas counties stricken by drought have been issued by the Commodity Credit Corporation at Kansas City.

The Arkansas Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation office said Boone and Benton counties would each get three carloads, Johnson County four and Crawford County five.

Eleven other counties in the state are eligible for CCC corn; Carroll, Madison, Newton, Searcy, Washington, Franklin, Sebastian, Marion, Van Buren, Stone and Yell.

Fire Ant Hits in Some Areas

A spokesman for the free schools said about $200,000 has been raised to finance the private schools.

Ruling Again Bars Man From Track

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Arkansas Supreme Court ruled today that the Southland Dog Racing Track at West Memphis was within its rights in barring Thomas A. Griffin of Miami, Fla., from the track.

Griffin had appealed from a Circuit Court decision holding that track officials had authority to bar Griffin as an undesirable patron.

It was never brought out why the track wanted to bar Griffin.

Griffin buys, breeds and sells racing dogs. He owns half of 120 shares of the stock in the track. He and a brother were involved in a similar dispute more than a year ago when both were barred from the track. Thomas Griffin renewed the case this year.

The legal question was whether the track had the authority to bar Griffin since he held a pass issued by the state Racing Commission, which regulates the track. Griffin's stockholder's pass was cancelled by the track.

Justice George Rose Smith, who wrote the majority opinion, said that the pass is simply a substitute for admission and a proprietor has the right to refuse to admit or to eject persons he thinks to be undesirable. Justice Jim Johnson dissented.

Weather Bureau said its latest target was the Texas Coast between Port Arthur and Galveston.

Both Texas and Louisiana were braced for the brutal, punishing hurricane winds. Thousands rushed inland while Cindy still growled through the Gulf of Mexico.

"The hurricane has become somewhat disorganized," said the Galveston Weather Bureau. "Its center is poorly defined and the squalls have kind of separated." Cindy aimed her 80-mile-an-hour winds toward the Texas coast which hurricane Carla pounded two years ago, causing damage in the millions of dollars.

The New Orleans Weather Bureau's 8 a.m. advisory said Cindy's eye was about 30 miles south-east of Galveston, which was being lashed with 74 m.p.h. winds.

Cindy wasn't much as hurricanes go. Still her winds generated a force equivalent to 500 atom bombs of the type dropped on Hiroshima.

Cameron, La., a small fishing village due south of Lake Charles, was sealed off as rising tides covered the only two highways leading inland.

Only law enforcement officers and Civil Defense workers remained in Cameron, which vividly remembers 1957's hurricane Audrey which flattened the town and left over 500 dead.

The remainder of Cameron Parish's 10,000 residents scurried to high and dry spots like Lake Charles and nearby Sulphur, leaving all but a few belongings behind.

While there were no casualties reported immediately, at least three persons were reported missing. Two were aboard a boat on a lake in the swampy coastal area between Lake Charles and Cameron. The third missing man was reported aboard an oil company crewboat.

At least 26 men were riding out the hurricane on two offshore oil drilling rigs. They couldn't be evacuated in time.

A report from one rig said 30-foot waves and 55 m.p.h. winds were buffeting the structure.

Tax Exemption for Parents of Quints

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., urged Congress today to provide special tax exemptions and benefits for the Fischer quintuplets of South Dakota and their parents.

He introduced legislation which, among other things, would exempt the family of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Fischer from income taxes until the quintuplets have reached the age of 21.

He said this would help the family meet the heavy expenses it faces.

Body Recovered From Lake Tahoe

TAHOE CITY, Calif. (AP) — The body of one of four Air Force officers feared drowned in a water skiing accident was recovered Sunday night from Lake Tahoe and identified today as Lt. Janet L. Rankin, 28, Bradford, Pa.

Identity was made by the Washoe County sheriff's office in Reno.

Some boat wreckage and one water ski were found near the body.

An air, land and water search was under way at the lake by the U.S. Coast Guard, Washoe County's sheriff's office and Stead Air Force Base.

The three missing officers were Capt. Jean F. Gasbarri, 30, of Leominster, Mass.; Lt. G. L. Morgan, 27, of Athens, Tenn.; and Lt. June P. Murdaugh, 25 of Tulsa, Okla.

Their 18-foot boat crashed Saturday afternoon.

The search was started when the two male officers failed to show up for duty as scheduled Sunday morning.

desirable choices available to us."

The treaty drew support from Sen. Stuart Symington and opposition from Sen. Strom Thurmond.

"Unless there can be some understanding among the growing number of nations that will have the weapon, a nuclear holocaust is only a question of time," declared Symington, a Missouri Democrat.

Symington, a former secretary of the Air Force, said in a prepared Senate speech the treaty banning all but underground testing "will not affect to any appreciable extent our capability to destroy the Soviet Union if a retaliatory strike is required."

On the other side of the debate — which shows indications of continuing into next week — Thurmond, a South Carolina Democrat, charged the treaty constitutes "major risks and jeopardies to the capability of the United States to deter a nuclear war in the future."

The Senate granted unanimous consent Monday to move from debate on the treaty itself to consideration of the resolution of ratification, to which a series of reservations, understandings and interpretations have been offered.

But so many senators remain to speak on the issue that the goal of a final vote by Friday still appeared doubtful.

So far, 77 senators are committed to or inclined to vote for ratification. Thirteen are opposed. Ten are doubtful or undecided. Ratification requires a two-thirds majority of those voting—67 favorable votes if all 100 senators should vote.

Both Symington and Thurmond are members of the Senate Preparedness subcommittee which heard much military and scientific testimony critical of the treaty.

Symington lined up with the Joint Chiefs of Staff, who held that there are military risks and disadvantages to the treaty, but that with safeguards for U.S. security the treaty was acceptable.

But Thurmond said in his prepared address that the military chiefs merely "went along with the White House," and that this was different from supporting the treaty.

"The chiefs of staff may not have been threatened outright, and most probably were not," Thurmond said, "but the chiefs live in an environment which daily demonstrates the rule of rigid compliance with decisions from above."

Symington said he had listened to the testimony of 44 witnesses as a member of both the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and the preparedness subcommittee.

He said he did not believe the evidence "supports the conclusion that the treaty is sure to result in significant military or technical disadvantages to the United States."

TO TELL OR NOT TELL THE TRUTH

By HELEN WORDEN ERSKINE

Dear Helen: I have three children. This query concerns the oldest who is five. My husband is not his "legal" father but the "legal" father of the other two as far as birth is concerned. The boy does not know this since his "Daddy" and I were married when he was but a few months old.

I think he should be told before he finds out by other means, which I am sure he will eventually. My other children are fair; he isn't. Several acquaintances have remarked on that. Also, the youngest is named after his father. That might present a problem later on. My husband says, "What five more years. The boy won't be able to understand now. He'll only become confused and be hurt."

The lad has started school; other kids have a tendency to speak about things they know nothing about and little pitchers "do" have big ears—besides my youngster is sensitive. I feel that the sooner a lot of things are cleared up, the better. Isn't this one of them? —Harrowed Mother

Dear Harrowed: As a rule I recommend that the parents explain an adopted child's status to him as soon as he is capable of understanding. If a secure and loving relationship has already been established between parents and child, and is maintained, the adoptee generally encounters no difficulty in accepting the truth.

What name is on your son's birth certificate? If it is his real father's name, which is different from your married name, then of course you will have to explain this to your child at some point.

I also wonder about what un-

Inspiration of 'Trees' to Be Cut

By JOHN CURLEY

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. (AP) —The huge white oak believed to have inspired Joyce Kilmer to write "Trees" will be cut down Wednesday, a victim of old age.

The tree's demise sounds a sad note for Rutgers University, site of the oak, and for those who say it was the tree Kilmer had in mind when he wrote the poem.

Others say the tree that inspired Kilmer is elsewhere. Mahwah, a community in northern New Jersey where the poet lived four years, contends Kilmer wrote of the trees that shaded his home there.

In Montague City, Mass., they tell how Kilmer wrote "Trees" after seeing a spreading maple in the yard of an old mansion. In Swanzey, N.H., 25 miles north of Montague City, it's thought the late poet penned "Trees" while viewing a group of maples during a vacation.

Belief that the gnarled oak at Rutgers was the tree of "Trees" has grown over the years.

However, a university spokesman admits: "We can't prove it the one Kilmer had in mind. But then, who can prove an inspiration?"

The legend is that as a boy in New Brunswick and as a student at Rutgers, Kilmer sat under the sprawling oak, its branches spanning more than a hundred feet in near-perfect symmetry. He left here in 1906.

"Trees" appeared in 1913 in a literary magazine, while Kilmer was living in Mahwah.

Whether an oak, a maple, one tree or many inspired Kilmer will probably never be known. But the oak at Rutgers, perhaps the best known of the "Kilmer trees," will be on center stage Wednesday.

The oak stands alone in a field, enclosed by a small white fence. When felled, it will be stored until a decision is made on what to do with the wood. If the trunk is sound, a cross section will be given to the Sgt. Joyce Kilmer, American Legion Post in New Brunswick.

Actors Get Paid for TV Reruns

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Television's summer viewers may not have been wildly amused by the re-run season but a lot of actors profited.

Statistics for July, released by the Screen Actors Guild, show that residual payments to performers for re-runs were close to a million dollars, almost half again as much as they were the previous year.

Part of the 42 per cent increase resulted from a boost in the $90 minimum re-run payment to $100 per show for performers. Perhaps more important is the fact that last season, re-runs started earlier than ever — some even in April. There were more repeat, hence more money.

Financial boons though the re-runs may be to sponsors, producers and performers, there is some evidence that viewers protest in their own quiet way — by not watching.

The most recent Nielsen ratings show that CBS' "What's My Line," a vintage panel show that has always resisted re-runs, leaped into the number three position on the popularity poll. And CBS' "Vacation Playhouse," a collection of unsold comedy pilot films, and pretty dreary ones at that, was ninth.

During the next three weeks, new programs and old programs with new material will be launched so fast and furiously that no individual viewer can sample them all.

The action starts tonight. "International Showtime" resumes on NBC (7:30-8:30 p.m. Eastern Daylight Time), with acts from the Munich Circus. First premiere of the season will be "Harry's Girls," also on NBC at 9:30.

"The Lieutenant," another NBC series, bows in Saturday night (7:30-8:30), followed with the first program of Joey Bishop's new season.

ABC will present three new series Sunday evening, from 7:30 to 10:30. They start with "The Travels

President to Talk Wednesday

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy will speak to the nation over television and radio on his tax bill Wednesday night, the White House announced today.

The speech is scheduled for 7 p.m. EDT.

Salinger said Kennedy "wants to speak to the nation and give his views on the tax bill."

Salinger said Kennedy's speech will be carried live on the CBS, NBC and ABC radio and TV networks and also on the Mutual radio network.

Aware of Reaction to His Marriage

WASHINGTON (AP) — New York's Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller says it's "realistic" to look upon his remarriage as seriously damaging his chances for the 1964 Republican presidential nomination.

"I have a very deep understanding of the reactions of individuals in this situation," he said Sunday night in a television interview—NBC's "Meet the Press."

"I have no sense but one of feeling for people's concern."

"I think it is a situation which in political life is difficult."

He expanded his views further today in an interview in U.S. News & World Report. Commenting on his divorce and remarriage he said:

"I think that the reaction on that subject is a highly personal one with all people. Until such time as there is an occasion when they have to make a decision, it's hard to tell exactly what that reaction will be."

"But when an individual has to make a decision, whether it's in a convention or in the voting booth, then I think that he will bring that factor along with all of the other factors, into balance and make a decision. The collective effort of all the people's decisions would, of course, give the answer."

He noted that the Gallup Poll now has Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona in the lead for the nomination, but said he believes someone else could end up with the prize.

As for Goldwater, the Arizonian said in an AP interview that if he decides to go after the presidential nomination, one of the main reasons would be his belief that as head of the ticket he could help Republicans get elected to the House and Senate in the South, Midwest and West.

"Win, lose or draw, if I were the nominee, I believe I could help get a lot of Republicans elected," he said.

Goldwater stuck to his position that he won't make up his mind until January about seeking the nomination.

Rockefeller set an earlier timetable. He said in the television interview he would announce his decision before the end of this year—perhaps in November.

On his charge that the Republican party was in "real danger of subversion by a radical, well-financed and highly disciplined minority," he was asked if he could say who was leading and financing that "disciplined minority."

"No," said Rockefeller, "it is very hard and that is one of the problems."

Was the charge aimed at Goldwater?

"No," said the governor, "it was not." In answer to another question, he said he saw no danger that Goldwater might become a "captive of the radical right."

In his magazine interview, he said there are many areas of agreement between him and Goldwater.

But he added: "There are many other areas in which it's hard for me to know just exactly where he does stand. His position on many issues has been importantly modified in recent weeks or months."

EYE ON THE SPARROWS—Head covered with a babushka, an old woman feeds bread-crumbs to two young sparrows who lighted on her fingers in London. The birds seem to be having a private conversation, oblivious of the human eavesdropper. It was an unusual sight, for sparrows ordinarily shy away from humans, even if they do bear food.

The NIGHT, The WOMAN

THE STORY: Valerie Hayward goes to the office of her lawyer Blake Carden in an effort to speed up "fantastic legalities." A few minutes before Blake had gone to the bank to draw out $3,000 in $100 bills to give to his brother Todd.

Mrs. Valerie Palmer Hayward was 26 years old and four months a widow. She had asked Blake to act as administrator, and as soon as the court had given him authorization he had begun regretting it.

Alec Hayward had involved himself in a tangle of speculative deals and dubious investments which were now shaping up as all but a total loss. He had only played at everything else, with a buoyant rashness. His supreme folly had been to crash his single-engine Piper into the main span of the Sunshine Skyway while solo stunting over Tampa Bay. It was entirely characteristic of him to die without life insurance, and interest. Much of the legal and financial shambles he had left behind could have been avoided if he had spent 15 minutes with a lawyer, dictating a will; but he had been too busy having fun to bother.

She was still nervously smoking her cigarette and tap-tapping the toe of one spike-heeled pump. "My hands are tied, Val. Settlement has two more months to go and there's no possible shortcut. And eventually, as I've told you before, you'll wind up with very little."

She stood still, gazing at Blake, judging — not judging him but something else. She went on several times in the past few weeks and had begun to sense that something had happened to her recently, something deeply hurtful. A strange change had come over her a subtle shading toward deviousness, as if she were secretly planning and waiting.

"Val, how can I help you?" "I don't know." She went on irritably and cryptically, "Maybe you can't. Maybe I'll have to find ways of my own this time." And without explaining her meaning, she went on brooding.

Outwardly this young woman was excitingly attractive, but Blake could not admire the inner qualities that dominated her. She was extravagant, shallow, willful, petulant, self-pampered and sometimes vengeful. Expressed in action, these traits certainly were not pretty; yet it was possible to feel sorry for Val because she seemed totally unable to steer clear of disaster. As long as Blake had known her — 15 years — she had been caught up in a series of disasters, small and large, most of them of her own making.

scared little girl, lonely within herself, too dazed to respond. But shock had passed before long, and then the Wingates' troubles had begun.

Val had become demanding, as if straining to compensate for a heartbreaking loss that could never be recovered, and heedlessly rebellious. Blake could remember five or six episodes during Val's high school and early college years which had plunged the Wingates into despair. For 10 rough years they had coped with one escapade after another, all of them wild and preposterous. Blake had often thought how vastly relieved they must have been when Val's 21st birthday automatically ended the guardianship.

On that Aug. 5, five years ago Miss Valerie Palmer had come into full control of the legacy her father had left her — almost a quarter of a million dollars. With that she had really gone into orbit. An expensive apartment all her own, expensively furnished, complete with full-time maid. A high-priced convertible. A twin-motored cabin cruiser. Flights to Paris for clothes; flights to New York for jewels, furs, the theater. Flights to Las Vegas. There was no way of throwing money around that Val had not used lavishly.

Somewhere along the height of these gyrations she had met Alec Hayward, who "had everything" — social position, charm, good looks, manners, vitality even money — around a hundred thousand lately bequeathed him by his mother, the late Mrs. Wainwright Travis of Palm Beach. A wild streak in him to match Val's. They had lived it up riotously, and when Alec's money was gone, he had merrily helped Val to go on squandering hers.

Until now Val had probably never thought her money would someday run out. Not having an abundance of money was a new, bewildering experience for her; she felt helpless, facing a frightening future. She might or might not realize that the only way she could rescue herself was to marry again soon. Unfortunately, wealthy bachelors were in short supply.

"Blake, what quivered the deal on the house and the boat?" "I didn't know anything had. Last I heard, the Mannings were planning to sign the contracts and pay you their earnest money this morning."

"They changed their minds. Overnight. I want to know why."

"I can't tell you that, Val. They haven't been in touch with me." Blake gazed at her soberly, sympathizing in her distress. The Hayward home and the yacht Val had been exceptional items in the estate; they were paid for, the reason for this oddity being that both had been specially built at a time when the golden tide had not yet begun to ebb noticeably. Moreover, they had been jointly owned properties. Full title had passed to Val; she could dispose of either or both at any time. They were separately in the hands of good, aggressive agents,

Arkansans Held

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — Three Arkansans arrested in connection with three robberies at Wichita will face trial Oct. 15. They are Floyd Wharton, 36; Freddie Floyd Wilkinson, 24, and Mrs. Ruby J. Studer, 22, all of Little Rock. Wharton is also charged with possessing firearms after conviction of a felony.

but even so, considering the high prices on them, she had been lucky to find a buyer so soon. The sale would have put her back on her feet nicely — for a time, at any rate — and she had been counting on it. Plainly the Mannings' sudden reversal was a disheartening blow.

"Did you tell them you would consider selling for less?"

"Of course I did! I'm desperate to get rid of those two white elephants. The Mannings wouldn't bargain. Very apologetic, but they'd hardly listen. Blake—" A suspicious animosity had come into her eyes. "There's something behind this. Somebody talked them out of it."

"Why should anyone? They're capable of making up their own minds."

"But they were so delighted at first! Like kids on Christmas Eve — they could hardly wait. Then suddenly they turned so frightfully chilly." Her voice had lifted to a cry of indignation and pain. She lowered it. "Blake, I know somebody deliberately turned the Mannings against it."

"I can't believe that Val! You've learned from your own experience that the house is much too much for only two people, and maintaining a 48-foot boat is costly." For these same reasons, Blake was thinking, Val would probably be a long time finding another likely buyer. "I'm sorry, Val, but Manning hadn't signed, so I'm afraid there's nothing you can do about it."

She sat back, her eyes narrowed and calculating again. "Oh, isn't there," she said with a dangerous quietness.

The door opened then. Jean looked in and at Blake's nod came to his desk, bringing a letter. Evidently Vera had just collected the afternoon mail at the post office across the street and this was something Jean thought he should see immediately. She left the page of personal stationery in his hand and went back out while he read the brief message.

Dodgers Take Key Game From Cards

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer
"They've just got to fold," said Leo Durocher. "They've been so hot, they've just got to."

Is the outspoken Los Angeles coach right, or can the St. Louis Cardinals bounce back from a 3-1 defeat by the National League-leading Dodgers Monday night in the opener of the three-game showdown that may decide the pennant winner?

That was the question today as the Cardinals made ready for round No. 2—against Dodger ace Sandy Koufax, 23-5. Starting for St. Louis will be Curt Simmons, 15-7.

Leo made his comment before the game, with the Cardinals heading into the series at home only one game back of the Dodgers after rolling to 10 consecutive victories and 19 in 20 games.

The tense game moved into the ninth tied 1-1 before the Dodgers put together a double by Ron Fairly, a key single by Willie Davis and an error for the two runs that gave them the victory and a two-game lead over the Cardinals.

Now, even if the Cardinals take the two remaining games the Dodgers will be in first place.

"I am not the least bit pessimistic," said St. Louis Manager Johnny Keane. "We've got two more with 'em. This pennant race is a long way from being over yet."

While they were playing the big one at St. Louis, two other games were played in the National League.

Bob Veale pitched a two-hitter and Bill Mazeroski drove in the game's only run with a single in the last of the ninth as Pittsburgh edged the Chicago Cubs 1-0.

Juan Marichal won his 23rd game with a six-hitter and Orlando Cepeda hit a decisive home run to give San Francisco a 4-3 victory over Milwaukee.

The only American League game—Chicago at Washington—was rained out.

The Dodgers scored first against the Cardinals, getting to Ernie Broglio for a run in the sixth on a double by Maury Wills, his steal of third and a single by Tommy Davis.

Stan Musial's homer—one of only three hits off Dodger starter Johnny Podres—tied it in the seventh.

In the eighth with Broglio tiring, the Cardinal manager sent in a pinch hitter, then called on Bobby Shantz to hold the Dodgers in the ninth.

Ron Fairly lashed Shantz' first pitch for a double. Then Davis, who was hitting only .232 going into the game but had already collected two hits and stolen two bases, lined a single to right field. Fairly slid across the plate with the lead run on a close play.

A throwing error by Julian Javier let in the other run.

Students Who Visited Cuba Are Targets

NEW YORK (AP)—A brawl involving 80 persons, egg-throwing and scuffles with police developed from a rally held near Times Square Sunday by students who recently violated the State Department ban on travel to Cuba.

Eight persons were arrested.

The students held the Town Hall rally to discuss conditions they found in Cuba. They contended they were not allowed to describe the mat violence-marked hearings before the House Committee on Un-American Activities in Washington last week.

Some 1,400 persons filtered into the hall on West 43rd Street and at one point 80 persons engaged in a free-for-all that disrupted the meeting for 20 minutes.

During the melee, an anti-Castro demonstrator was knocked unconscious. He required hospital treatment.

Milwaukee to Tribute W. Spahn

By DAVE O'HARA
Associated Press Sports Writer
MILWAUKEE (AP)—Despite persistent rumors that the Braves are headed for Atlanta in 1964, Milwaukee's largest turnout of the season is expected tonight to pay tribute to wonderful Warren Spahn.

About 40,000 fans, civic leaders and baseball officials will join in tending the 42-year-old southpaw one of his greatest honors on "Warren Spahn Night."

Hall of Famers Carl Hubbell, Lefty Grove and Gabby Hartnett will participate in the pre-game festivities before Spahn makes a bid for his 21st victory of the season and No. 348 of his career in a meeting with the San Francisco Giants.

The usual shower of gifts will be missing. Instead, Spahn's name will participate in the pre-game ceremony of the Warren Spahn Scholarship Foundation. The fund will be financed by the sale of "Spahn" buttons at 25 cents each and private gifts.

The button sale is expected to realize more than $50,000. Private gifts include a personal contribution of $500 by Spahn himself.

The Braves' ace will be given a portrait, scrolls from each of the nine other National League clubs and a gift from his teammates. His wife will receive a jewel box and his son, Greg, 14, will be given a Western saddle.

Spahn, who earns $80,000 a year from the Braves and has a sprawling ranch in Hartshorne, Okla., agreed to the "night" only after assurances that the proceeds would go to set up the scholarship fund.

Bombing Is Deplored in Senate

WASHINGTON (AP)—The bombing of a Negro church in Birmingham, Ala., was deplored in the Senate today as a tragic blow to race relations. It also brought a plea for quicker action on civil rights legislation.

Majority leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., called the bombing, in which four little girls were killed, "reprehensible and outrageous." He expressed hope the guilty will be quickly found and punished.

He told the Senate "this tragic occurrence does not represent by any means the feeling of the great majority of the people of Birmingham, of Alabama, and of the United States."

He said it has set back the difficult road to better race relations in the country.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., said one of the lessons to be learned is that "delay in civil rights legislation clearly cannot be justified if we can avoid it."

He urged anew that the Senate not wait for the House to pass a civil rights bill but take up the public accommodations bill now under consideration by the Senate Commerce Committee as soon as it reaches the floor.

Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., said "this outrageous and disgraceful occurrence is a great tragedy for the whole country as well as Birmingham."

Meet The Hope Bobcats

RICHARD McDOWELL

Richard McDowell, a Tri-Captain of the 1963 Bobcats, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray McDowell and resides on East 3rd Street. Rich is a senior who stands 5'11" and weighs 180. He has earned two letters at fullback where he has been a regular since his sophomore year. He also lettered three years in junior football. Arkansas Football Magazine has selected Rich as one of the top backs in the state due to his all-around ability, both offensively and defensively.

Rich is a two year letterman in basketball and has won three letters in track. He is also an outstanding baseball player who plays outfield.

He is president of the Spanish Club and the Key Club and is a member of the Methodist Church.

Richard's father is manager of the Hope Hardware Company where Rich worked during the past summer. Mrs. McDowell is a housewife.

Rich plans to attend college but is undecided as to which one.

Captains Are Named for Porker Game

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP)—Guard Gary Howard, tackle Dave Adams and halfback Tommy Moore were named Monday co-captains for the Arkansas Razorbacks' season-opener against Oklahoma State Saturday at Little Rock.

The squad went through a "typical Monday workout," which Broyles indicated wasn't too good. On the brighter side, the Porkers have their last scrimmage behind them in preparation for the game, and only two men are definitely sidelined—noseguard Mike Hales and tackle Buddy Tackett. There were no new casualties Monday.

Broyles sent the team through an hour and 45-minutes of signal-type drills Monday as they began tapering off of the heavy work.

He said of the Oklahoma State game, "We're behind, because we don't know what to expect since their coaching changes. In the past we thought we knew, or could anticipate, their team. Now we have to cover everything."

Broyles indicated he would follow this year his two-year-old practice of rotating seniors as captains for Razorback games.

Burroughs Barred by Pro Czar

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A sorry Don Burroughs, the Philadelphia Eagles' defensive back, will not be present at Sunday's National Football League game here against the St. Louis Cardinals because of a disciplinary order from NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle.

Rozelle not only barred Burroughs from the game as the result of the player's strenuous protests Sunday against a decision in the Eagles-Pittsburgh Steelers' 21-21 tie game, he told Burroughs to keep away from Franklin Field.

The one-game suspension is without pay.

The action, Rozelle said, is because Burroughs "ran after a game official (field judge Dan Tahan) who was going to his dressing quarters on the opposite side of the field from the Eagles' locker room. Burroughs grabbed or shoved the official. In the confusion a second official (referee Bill Downes) was struck across the face, apparently inadvertently by Burroughs before the player ran to his dressing room."

Burroughs apologized to the officials.

"I was wrong—I did not mean to go as far as I did in expressing my feelings at the officials' call," he said.

He had said earlier he was expecting a fine for the vehemence of his objections to the ruling by Tahan on a forward pass from the Steelers' Ed Brown to Preston Carpenter in the last minute of the game.

Carpenter was tackled by Jimmy Carr and dropped the ball, and Burroughs fell on it. Tahan called it a completed pass and said the fumble and recovery did not count as he had whistled the ball dead.

The theory of crofting, an unusual system of tenant farming in northern Scotland, is emptying thatched cottages and driving young people to cities.

He quickly found and punished.

He told the Senate "this tragic occurrence does not represent by any means the feeling of the great majority of the people of Birmingham, of Alabama, and of the United States."

He said it has set back the difficult road to better race relations in the country.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., said one of the lessons to be learned is that "delay in civil rights legislation clearly cannot be justified if we can avoid it."

He urged anew that the Senate not wait for the House to pass a civil rights bill but take up the public accommodations bill now under consideration by the Senate Commerce Committee as soon as it reaches the floor.

Dodgers Hope Cards Have Choked Up

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer
ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP)—The Los Angeles Dodgers hoped today they had finally shoved the "choke" charge down the throats of their most caustic critics.

"They've been accusing us of choking. Now we'll see what happens. The shoe is on the other foot."

These words were uttered by Don Drysdale, Los Angeles' right-handed ace, following the Dodgers' vital 3-1 triumph over St. Louis Monday night that widened their first-place lead to two terribly big games over the Cardinals.

"Lew Burdette (St. Louis veteran pitcher) was giving us the business all through the game," added the 6-foot-6 Drysdale. "He was clutching his throat while sitting in the dugout. All that did was to make our guys more determined."

Burdette's obvious reference to choking apparently did not affect southpaw Johnny Podres who hurled a masterful three-hitter through eight innings before tiring and giving way to Ron Perranoski. The peerless bullpen specialist mopped up in the ninth. It was his 64th relief appearance and 18th save.

The Dodgers got to St. Louis starter Ernie Broglio and southpaw reliever Bobby Shantz for eight hits including three by Willie Davis and two by Maury Wills. The two stole four bases and scored two of the three Dodger runs.

The pressure now undoubtedly is on the Cardinals who face the added hurdle tonight of beating Sandy Koufax, the best in the business.

Even if they do and follow it up with another victory in Wednesday night's finale, the Dodgers still would leave St. Louis in first place by percentage points.

Furthermore, the league leaders will have the advantage of playing all their nine remaining games at home, three against the last-place New York Mets, three against eighth-place Pittsburgh and three against fifth-place Philadelphia.

The Cards will play the Cincinnati Reds five games and the Chicago Cubs two, four of these on the road.

Curt Simmons, the rejuvenated veteran, will oppose Koufax, who owns a 23-5 record that includes three straight triumphs against the Cardinals. Simmons, six years older than Koufax, 27, is pitching the best ball of his career. He has won 15 games, the last three by shutouts.

It was only the second loss in the last 21 games for the Cards who trailed the Dodgers by seven games just two weeks ago. It also ended a 10-game winning streak.

"This was the 14th victory in our last 20 games," said Drysdale. "So how can anyone say we're choking up? We've played great ball, but they were phenomenal. Even phenoms can lose, too."

Military Resents McNamara

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Affairs Writer
WASHINGTON (AP)—Robert S. McNamara is probably the toughest man ever to hold the demanding job of secretary of defense—and his toughness has generated resentment among some military leaders.

They have learned, sometimes painfully, that he means to have things done his way.

Although McNamara has his admirers in uniform, there are those who question whether he hasn't carried the acknowledged principle of civilian control too far—and hasn't, in the process, downgraded the importance of professional military judgement.

Adm. George W. Anderson, denied a second term as chief of naval operations, gave voice to these views recently when he warned against "discrediting the voices of dissent, especially the dissent of military men speaking on subjects they know."

Despite official denials, it is believed that Anderson's differences with McNamara on the TFX fighter plane development sped him into military retirement. Anderson soon will leave for Portugal as U.S. ambassador.

McNamara has insisted, in reply to criticism, that he consults the military chiefs more than did any previous defense secretary. He told a Senate committee recently he had turned to the chiefs on literally hundreds of occasions and that "their advice is absolutely essential."

Differences between military and civilian viewpoints are not new of course—not are public protests by military men.

Four years ago Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor blasted Eisenhower defense policies as Taylor retired as Army chief of staff.

Now, with many of Taylor's ideas adopted by the Kennedy administration, he is back in the Pentagon at the very top of the military heap—as chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.
